Test 3 – Use ELIDL

1. Please write an ELIDL document that represents the following instructional strategy:

"The learner must go through and complete the introduction first, and then gets learning material from lessons organized into topics. The learner gets all learning material from the topic. After that, he/she takes a test for each lesson (there is a corresponding test for each lesson). Tests are learning objects with the "test" label. After the tests, the learner gets only learning material from the lessons that are "not satisfied" on the test. There is no need to present learning material from the satisfied lessons.
